Dear Reader,

As Faculty Advisor of the Transportation Law Journal, I am privileged to present Volume 34:3 on behalf of the 2006-2007 Journal board and members.

Much has been accomplished by the dedicated members of the editorial board over the past several years. I am most happy to report that the Journal is now up to date thanks to the Herculean efforts of our past three Journal editors and staff. This effort recently culminated in the 251 page issue for Fall 2005/Spring 2006 which included no less than seven scholarly and comprehensive articles on cutting edge issues in the area of transportation law.

Even more exciting is the revitalized relationship between the Transportation Law Journal and the Transportation Lawyers Association. Although the TLA has always provided both financial and logistical support to the Journal, Journal editors now regularly attend and participate in TLA events and institutes, while TLA members work closely with the Journal reviewing and critiquing articles, as well as submitting articles for publication. The result has been both the cross-fertilization of ideas as well as renewed opportunities for transportation law students and Journal members to liaison and network with the most knowledgeable and professional transportation lawyers in the country and around the world.

Consistent with revitalized relationship has been the participation of TLA members in the Transportation Law class offered at the Sturm College of Law. Members have traveled at their own expense to serve as visiting professors and give to the transportation law students here at the Sturm College of Law the benefit of their vast experience and knowledge in the area of transportation law. In addition, many of these TLA members are now contributing to a transportation law casebook and hornbook being prepared here at the College of Law.

The prospects for the future are no less exciting. The Sturm College of Law's new dean, Beto Juarez, has expressed his interest in expanding the transportation law curriculum, pledged his continuing support for the Journal and TLA, and promises to play an important role in the revitalized relationship between the two.

All of this augurs well for the future of both the Journal and the TLA, and I look forward to the role both will play in the future development of transportation law.

Warmly,

Robert Hardaway
