

1-1-2006

Landing on the Trumpet Vine

Gregory J. Hobbs

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.du.edu/wlr>

Custom Citation

Gregory J. Hobbs, Landing on the Trumpet Vine, 9 U. Denv. Water L. Rev. 608 (2006).

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University of Denver Sturm College of Law at Digital Commons @ DU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Water Law Review by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ DU. For more information, please contact jennifer.cox@du.edu, dig-commons@du.edu.

LEADERS

Sand bar makes the river go round and cut deeper channel trout hang in trailing eddies drift feeding;

Fisher people need sand bars by which to gauge their standing River's been here much longer will be;

Trouble's what we mostly concentrate on shovel gravel into streams as furious as we're able shout more loads;

River will talk us along if listen we hear voices calling come out of the trees brightly tie your leaders.

LANDING ON THE TRUMPET VINE

If you invite, I would send hummingbird
Your way. Upon a perch she dances words
With honey-water wings, O you will hear
A buzz uplifting, not the gossip leer
Of today's reported soon-forgotten Scandal! Does not feed on nectar rotten,
She will sip on brightly-sprouting bluebells Hung, alluring, upon those fragrant smells Ladies put upon themselves for drawing Forth delight at moment's dearest calling.
Ah! Her ruby throat and sheen, snowy breast, Dark and piercing eyes, petite-muscled. Best At long-distance traveling if you can Book her for a sojourn in Mantzalan, Rocky Mountain/Sierra blue river,
You will never greet a fairer giver.