

January 1962

Book Review: Expulsion or Oppression of Business Associates

Claude M. Maer Jr.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.du.edu/dlr>

---

Recommended Citation

Claude M. Maer, Jr., Book Review: Expulsion or Oppression of Business Associates, 39 Dicta 130 (1962).

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by the Denver Law Review at Digital Commons @ DU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Denver Law Review by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ DU. For more information, please contact jennifer.cox@du.edu, dig-commons@du.edu.

---

Book Review: Expulsion or Oppression of Business Associates

BOOK REVIEW

EXPULSION OR OPPRESSION OF BUSINESS ASSOCIATES.

By F. Hodge O'Neal and Jordan Derwin, Durham, North Carolina: Duke University Press. 1961. Pp. 263. $10.

This timely work bears the subtitle, "'Squeeze-Outs' in Small Enterprises," which describes in colloquial terms the subject of the volume. This work was prepared by Duke University under the Small Business Administration Management Research Grant program with Professor O'Neal acting as project director and his co-author designated the research associate.

The style of writing is such that it will be equally valuable for both the lawyer and his businessman client in studying the problems caused by business conflicts between majority and minority groups in both corporations and partnerships. Following the opening chapter devoted to a description of the scope of the study and the general background of the problems involved, Professor O'Neal launches into an interestingly documented discussion of the underlying causes of squeeze-outs. Some of the chapter subtitles indicate a discussion of problems frequently encountered in Colorado business practice, such as §2.03—"The inactive shareholder," §2.04—"The decease of founder and other key shareholders," §2.08—"Disregard of corporate ritual and failure to keep proper records," §2.10—"Viewing incorporated enterprise as a 'partnership' or 'family business'," §2.15—"Inability of minority shareholder in close corporation to dispose of his interest," and §2.16—"Difficulty of valuing a business interest." The authors needed the legal profession a bit under §2.19—"Businessmen's failure to obtain preventive legal services and inability of many lawyers to supply adequate preventive services."

Three chapters are devoted to a detailed discussion of squeeze-out techniques, including a discussion of the rather unlikely situation of a squeeze-out of the majority by a minority group.

Chapter 6 is devoted to squeeze-outs in partnerships and contains an interesting commentary on the relative possibility of a squeeze-out in a partnership as compared to a corporation. On page 142 it is stated:

The inherent simplicity of the partnership form results in fewer opportunities (as compared with the corporation) for subtlety or sophisticated dealings in effecting a squeeze-play. Consequently, many partnership squeeze cases involve outright fraud, close approximations to it, or flagrant appropriations of partnership assets or business opportunities. Because of the more highly developed concept of fiduciary duty applied to partnership relations and the ease of dissolution, the partnership is not as amenable as the corporation to some of the squeeze-out techniques. A wide-awake partner, with the aid of timely and competent advice, often can more easily prevent or thwart a squeeze-out than can a corporate shareholder under similar pressure.

Thus, in a situation where there is some likelihood of conflict between the business associates, the attorney may well want to advise the use of a partnership rather than a corporation.

A chapter is devoted to arrangements which avoid squeeze-outs. These include buy-out arrangements, the advantages of arbitration and other arrangements for settling disputes, shareholder agreements, provisions requiring the declaration of dividends, employment contracts, use of the provision, new to Colorado corporation law with the 1958 Act, permitting the requirement of higher than majority votes for corporate action by inclusion of such requirement in articles of incorporation or by-laws, and other similarly useful devices.

Finally, Professor O'Neal includes a chapter discussing legislative measures and other possible changes in the law which might tend to reduce or alleviate the problems created by business conflicts. A comparison of English and Irish laws on this subject is made and specific statutes throughout the United States are discussed.

An appendix includes detailed briefs of four typical squeeze-out cases, a comprehensive table of cases keyed to applicable portions of the text, and a complete index.

All in all, this is a very useful study, and lawyers representing businessmen would do well to have this volume on their shelves.

Claude M. Maer, Jr.*

---

* Member of the Denver firm of Holland & Hart.

YOUR OFFICE SAFE

may be safe enough for ordinary purposes but your important documents should be in a SAFE DEPOSIT BOX in our new modern vault, designed for both safety and convenience.

A whole year for as little as $5 plus tax.

COLORADO STATE BANK

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

OF DENVER — SIXTEENTH AT BROADWAY

The Rocky Mountain Mineral
Law Institute announces: . . .

The Eighth Annual
ROCKY MOUNTAIN
MINERAL LAW INSTITUTE

July 26, 27 and 28, 1962
at the
UNIVERSITY OF DENVER LAW CENTER

Featuring

Seminar on Farmout Agreements
U.S.G.S. Supervision of Federal and Indian Leases
Operator's Privileges and Perils During Title Litigation
Seminar on Conflict of Interest in Oil and Gas Operations
Changing Concepts in Patent Applications and Procedures
Tax Considerations in Conducting an Oil Business
Finality, Modification and Restrictive Effect of Conservation Orders
Lessee's Rights and Obligations to Surface Owner
Consequences of Horizontal Division of Leaseholds

For Further Information

Write to the Institute Director

UNIVERSITY OF DENVER LAW CENTER
200 West 14th Avenue
Denver 4, Colorado