Preliminary Draft of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure Published

Several copies of the preliminary draft of the proposed Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure have been received by the Colorado Supreme Court Library. Interested persons may obtain copies from the Advisory Committee on Rules of Criminal procedure, Supreme Court of the United States, Washington 13, D. C.

The proposed rules would eliminate pleas in abatement, demurrers, motions to quash and pleas in bar. All preliminary defenses and objections would be consolidated in a single motion.

They also provide for: a simplified form of indictment; an adaptation of the pre-trial procedure; an expansion of the present procedure for taking depositions; the right in defendant to waive indictment and consent to be tried on information; that admissibility of evidence be governed by rules of common law as interpreted by federal courts; and for the abolition of exceptions as under the rules of civil procedure.

In addition, provision is made for effectuating the accused's right to counsel, for pre-sentence investigations, for a change of venue (not now included in federal law) and for simplified appellate procedure.
