Program Committee Asks Your Suggestions

The program committee of the Denver Bar Association is anxious to ascertain the wishes of the members of the association as to the type of programs they wish to have during the coming year. All those desiring to express preference should direct a telephone message or letter to Jacob V. Schaetzel, chairman, 322 Colorado National Bank Building, Denver, Colorado.

Some of the topics suggested are the following:

"The new practice and procedure rules—how they have worked in the past and how they can be improved in the future."

"What will the new director of the Denver Planning Commission recommend to stabilize real estate values in Denver and how will they affect our clients' property in outlying districts?"

"Tire and gas rationing in Denver. How will it affect our practice?"

"The Denver lawyer in wartime. What can we do to aid the war effort, make a living for ourselves and do a better job?"

"Law office management. Can it help us get out more work at a lower cost?"

"Should we have minimum fees in Denver?"

"Standardized legal opinions. Is title registration under the Torrens Act better than title insurance and will it save the property owners' money?"

"Joint meeting with real estate men. Will co-operation help?"

"Probate practice and attorney fees connected therewith."

"Commercial practice and the bankruptcy court."

"Legal aid, how it works and what is expected of the Denver attorneys."

"Let us have your suggestions," says Mr. Schaetzel, "because these are your meetings and we want to meet the reasonable requirement of our members. Let us hear from you."

Ambulance Chasers

The Bar Association of the District of Columbia has created a committee whose sole function is ambulance chasing. And the committee is doing just that; in fact its members are chasing, not one, but two ambulances. The committee is raising funds for the purchase of two ambulances, one for the Walter Reed Hospital and the other for the Naval Hospital. The ambulances being chased are quoted at $1,500 each.
